Smart City Features

Do you think you can benefit by using a mobile application where it provides details of traffic, environmental, weather-related and other issues occurring within a city and around your local area? Details of these issues may include an image of the incident, a description and a location. Please explain

10 responses

Yes this sounds like a great feature to have.

Yes direct notifications with little relevant information would be good.

Yes certainly, with the details being that broad it would certainly help.

Yes it would be useful to be aware of what is happening in my area. The stated data would be useful, especially an image.

This would be helpful to me

Yes

Yes that would be useful. Currently it is difficult accessing this data from numerous sources such as social media and news alerts.

This would most definitely be helpful for me and members in my local community

Possibly yes I would need to see it physically

This will benefit me as I live close to a city

Would you be willing to report an issue you have seen within your local area or city if it simply meant taking a picture, adding a description and posting it within an application?

Yes/No: Please explain your answer

Yes this feature sounds very simple to use. It would definitely help me so it may help others.

I would be willing to do this.

Yes this would be easy to do.

Yes this seems simple enough and seems like it would benefit others to do so. It would probably help the local council too.

I think if I were to see an issue on the street perhaps, yes I would be willing to report it. However, I would not go out looking for things to report.

If it were to benefit others, yes possibly.

Yes, mostly because this seems fairly simple to do with my phone.

I will be able to do this.

Potentially, depending on how simple it actually is

Yes I would be willing to do this. If this process is like this it would be quick to do and seems beneficial for many people.

Do you think you can benefit by using a mobile application that allows you to select a specific location to receive issue-related updates related to that area? For example, monitoring a location where a relative resides and receiving a notification if an issue has occurred near there. Yes/No: Please explain your answer

Yes, as unlike with social media apps, I don't think I'll continually be logging in to see issues. So direct notification would be great.

Yes as stated previously, direct notifications would be my main use of this application

This would certainly be helpful if it could cover the entirety of Birmingham

I think mostly my local area and Birmingham city as I travel there frequently

Yes, this may be helpful

This sounds like a good feature so yes.

Yes this would certainly be helpful when travelling to a certain location but also I could possible receive notifications for my local area

This would be helpful, especially when travelling to a certain location within the UK. I am not sure about the benefits of this travelling abroad however but is something that I may need to see the benefits from after usage.

Yes, it wouldn't hurt to get more information around my town

Yes this could benefit me. I would probably want direct notification around my household area.
